

Escape from New York

I've watched enough local shorts to know it's not the destination, it's the journey.

Rules of the Rail:

- Travel in order, passing through the fewest number of stations possible.
- No u-turns.
- Count every station you pass through, even if your train does not make a stop.
- Herald Sq., Wall St., and Nassau Ave. are not worth counting.
- Free transfers are legal but count as changing stops.
- If two stations have different names but share a dot, consider them the same.
- The M train isn't running below 42nd Street and the E train is out of commission.
- You want to be a real New Yorker. Avoid Times Square.
- Trains are being rerouted around the stop on 23rd St. and Sixth Ave.
- The Rawson St. and 5 Ave. stops on the 7 train are closed for renovation.
- Although Staten Island is a "long island" it is not, in fact, Long Island.
- The stench of the L train cannot be tolerated for more than six stops in a row.
- Senator Provolone sucks.
- Stand clear of the closing doors, please.

3-2-4-1-1-3-1-4-1-3-3-4